

Bonjour!

Je m'appelle Judy Gadsby.

For many adults, that's about all they remember learning in French class.

I'm on a mission – to help children confidently declare that they know French! I daily endeavour to help non-lovers become tolerators, tolerators become likers, and likers become lovers of French.

I, myself, began learning and loving the language in high school in Brantford. A teacher there fanned the flame, and I carried on studying French, receiving my BA in Honours French at the U of W in 1990.

During that time I also married my husband, Brian, and we set to raising up 4 children, who are all now in their 20's.

Added to the mix are 1 daughter-in-law and 1 baby grandson – both treasured additions to the family.

Teaching French is great and all, but I haven't even arrived at the BEST part yet – at Plattsville Christian School I get to live out the pleasure of this passion inside a bigger and brighter context: my faith in Jesus Christ...and nothing compares to this!
